

SACRED HEART PARISH PLANS GRADE SCHOOL

Location of School Building to Be Subject of Drive for Funds by Local Church.

The erection of a new grade school building, the estimated cost of which will be $25,000, was voted by parishioners of Sacred Heart church at a meeting in the church Sunday evening.

Organization for a drive to raise the necessary funds for the construction of the building is under way and it is expected that the campaign will be initiated within the next few weeks.

Plans are for a modern building accommodating 200 pupils of the grades, high school students continuing to attend the public, St. Joseph's or Villa de Chantal high school classes. The new structure is to be modern in every respect and will probably be located on the property immediately to the south of the Sacred Heart church, on Avenue.

Father C. P. O'Neill, pastor of Sacred Heart church, discussing the planned improvement today, said:

"It was 22 years last July 20 that the first bishop of Peoria, Rt. Rev. John Lancaster Spalding, created the new parish now known as the Sacred Heart, with the boundaries from Twenty-third street to the Illinois line. The first pastor, Rev. John F. Lockney, erected the present church building and for a short time conducted a grade school in the temporary church building. It was later abandoned when it was found that the school facilities there were entirely inadequate.

With the coming of the present rector all efforts were concentrated on the paying of the long standing debt upon the property. This was quickly accomplished and the work was shaping themselves for the new project when the war prices and other conditions made it impossible to start the work. In the meantime, most of the parish children were sent to St. Joseph's school, where they were made at home by Dean Quinn and the sisters.

To Father Quinn the Sacred Heart parish owes a lasting debt of gratitude for his kindness to its children, and as well to the sisters and Dean Quinn, who has followed the policy of his predecessor.

"Owing to the fact that both parishes have been growing, it is obvious that the present arrangement cannot be continued much longer without trespassing on the space that is needed by St. Joseph's for its own school children. It is therefore proposed to start in immediately to raise the necessary funds for the new school."

CITY PLANNING STATE MEETING MAY BE CALLED

Decatur Association of Commerce Would Have Steps Taken to Make Work Effective.

The Association of Commerce at Decatur is endeavoring to arrange a conference between all Illinois cities, which have been, or expect to be, interested in city planning ideas. Secretary O. F. Hildebrandt of the Rock Island Chamber of Commerce, is in receipt of a request to take this matter up with the board of directors as soon as possible and learn what the sentiment is towards sending one or two representatives to such a conference in Decatur.

It is proposed to hold the conference sometime in November. The meeting would consider necessary and appropriate legislation bearing on this subject, and ascertain as far as possible practicable plans for carrying out city planning provisions.

It is set forth that in cities where the attempt has been made to secure a general observance on the part of the public of the recommendations contained in city plans which have been formally approved by a majority of the citizens, more or less difficulty has been encountered, owing to the absence of any sufficient law permitting city authorities to enforce such provisions.

CHILDREN CHANGE NATION'S DESTINY, NEW PASTOR SAYS

"The destiny of a nation can be changed by one generation, but with children as ours we need not fear," Rev. Joseph A. Chapman, new pastor of the First Methodist church, said yesterday morning at the rally services held at the church. Rev. Mr. Chapman announced that he will give his first sermon at the services next Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Chapman explained that the work with the children is the most important work of the church and that it is with the Sunday school division where the biggest efforts should be laid. In the evening Rev. Chapman spoke on "Come and See," saying that one's life should stand as the testimony that there is a God in this life.

The rally day program was carried out with the graduation of beginners to the primary department, from primary to junior department and from the junior to the intermediate department.

MUSICAL ACT IS FEATURE OF NEW COLUMBIA SHOW

Burt Earle and girls—eight of them—have a fast moving musical act at the Columbia for the first half of the week. Earle has surrounded himself with a bevy of damsels who are not only good to look upon but who are versatile when it comes to music and they play various instruments to the pleasant satisfaction of the audience.

Harry Bond & Co., presenting

"Our Wife," has something fresh in the way of comedy sketches in which one man sells his wife to another for $20,000, but owing to a misunderstanding, the purchaser is under the impression that the wife is a woman who he has been meeting clandestinely, whereas he has never seen the one he has purchased.

DeBell and Waters, who will be remembered in the musical sketch at the Columbia last season, "Kap-tain Kidd's Kid," had a snappy line of chatter. Payton & Lum sang and talked. Doyle and Elaine, girls in blackface, won approval, and Fred and Daisy Rial presented an unusual act in "A Ring Flirtation."

Give Credit Where Credit is Due

Much has been said and written concerning the recent reductions in the price of automobiles and many people have been led to believe that the automobile industry is responsible for the recent trend of prices of other things as well.

With all due respect to Mr. Ford for the action he has taken; still we believe that to the women's garment industry (manufacturers and retailers) goes the credit of having first analyzed and prepared for, the present economic conditions.

Different industries are subject to different conditions of production and marketing. Prices of automobiles and catalogued articles are fixed to prevail for long periods and cannot be changed every few days, according to the fluctuations of materials, or supply and demand, but this is exactly what is expected of other commodities.

For this reason a 10% cut in automobile prices causes more of a sensation than a 20 to 33% cut of wearables, arrived at by degrees.

The New York Daily Garment News of Sept. 27th quotes D. M. Lewis, Credit Manager of the National Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers Association as follows:

The downward trend of prices, which is now manifesting itself, was anticipated by the ready-to-wear manufacturers in time to sell Fall goods to the retailers at prices which would enable them to offer garments at reductions of from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent in comparison with retail prices of a year ago. The danger of this price propaganda lies in the probability that the general public will jump at the conclusion that retailers can cut prices again, overlooking the fact that the prices of Fall garments are already from 1-4 to 1-3 less than they were a year ago.

We make these statements and quote Mr. Lewis, to correct the erroneous idea that prices of ladies' ready-to-wear apparel have not been reduced. To be sure, the general trend of prices now is downward, but from the present low prices further reductions will be gradual and not so noticeable unless the price of labor is adjusted, by increase of production rather than reduction of wages. In fact, some price advances in certain lines need occasion no surprise.

Manufacturers, in order to meet the demand made upon them by the retailer for lower prices, have in many instances figured their piece goods for less than they can be replaced today at the reduced prices quoted by the mills.
